Simplex Helps Firm Expand Clean Manufacturing

FONTANA, CA -- Simplex Isolation Systems, a designer and manufacturer of modular cleanrooms, recently completed the construction of more than 2,500 feet of clean manufacturing space in the new facilities of Irvine, CA-based Xcaper Industries. Manufacturing takes place in five of Simplex's AirLock modular cleanrooms, which are designed as Class 10,000 clean facilities.

"We originally found Simplex through their website," said Steve Reese, VP of Operations at Xcaper, "Simplex has not only provided excellent cleanrooms, but from our first meeting they have also been a source of solid advice and guidance when it comes to clean manufacturing."

Xcaper Industries manufactures the Xcaper® Smoke Mask. The mask, impregnated with an all-natural plant extract, delivers protection in fires by absorbing hazardous toxins, such as carbon monoxide, hydrogen cyanide, and 100% of particulate matter common to the smoke in such fires, allowing people safe passage as they exit a building.

Xcaper started manufacturing several years ago with a Simplex AirLock in their original facility, also in Irvine. In the last few years the combination of heightened awareness of the dangers of fires in the workplace, and the quality product developed by Xcaper Industries, has resulted in substantial increase in product demand, and the need for more manufacturing space.

"Xcaper is a great example of how the AirLock cleanroom can easily create a clean manufacturing environment," added Duane McKinnon, president of Fontana, CA-based Simplex. "Our latch-together, modular design goes together quickly and allows for easy expansion, and for a rapidly expanding business such as Xcaper, that ability to expand is important."

Founded in 1979, Simplex Isolation Systems designs and manufactures custom cleanrooms, curtains and other isolation products that are modular and easily expandable. Simplex products are distributed in the U.S., Canada and Mexico through a nationwide dealer network.
